AMUSEMENTS

Vaudeville and Pictures

"The Gypsy Serenaders", is the feature vaudeville attraction today and Saturday at the Princess, and the act includes four people who entertain with singing, dancing and musical numbers. Eddie Gilligan also will appear in an act, in the role of a tramp juggler, and each act is said to be high class in every detail. Dorothy Dalton, true sportswoman.

Without mentioning past performances, Miss Dalton earns this title by the versatility displayed by her in "The Woman Who Walked Alone" a George Melford production in which she comes to the Princess theatre for two days beginning today.

In this feature, she proves her prowess by riding to hounds; shooting and taking part in the favorite outdoor sports of Merrie England. Also, she had to dance a fandango under most dramatic circumstances, try her luck at the roulette tables, and finally run a tavern on the African veldt, where the tangled threads of her destiny and another's are brought together in a surprising culmination. Milton Sills and Wanda Hawley appear in her support, with a large and excellent cast.

Western at the Mystic

A western feature, "The Broadway Buckaroo" will be shown at the Mystic tonight, featuring William Fairbanks, a famous actor for his western plays. The play is a five reel drama of the east and west, and is said to be an unusually good picture.

On one occasion it was necessary that Bill Fairbanks lead his pursuers down the side of a steep slide. It was a very difficult feat to attempt and several members of the company tried to dissuade Bill from what they thought would certainly end in a trip to the hospital. Even the director became somewhat skeptical, though he knows that Bill is pastmaster of horsemanship. However, Bill as insistent and several cowboys, after being promised a substantial bonus, agreed to follow him. But lo, and behold, Bill went down that slide so fast and so recklessly that he was out of the picture before his followers were in and it was necessary to retake the scene, much to the chagrin of the boys following him, who didn't relish the ride a bit.

"Pedigree"

(A list, in order, of the ancestors from whom one has descended)
A pedigreed animal may be, and frequently is, no better individually than a cross-bred, but its value lies in the fact that as a sire or a dam, it will exert an overwhelming influence on the next generation, as compared with the cross-bred animal, and the value or force of the pedigree is that of true breeding from parents whose blood has been for at least several generations kept unmixed with alien strains. The pedigrees of the sires and dams of our offering for our sale, Wednesday, September 20, have been selected with the idea of producing a hog that the farmers of Rush county can use to the greatest profit, and we believe, our hogs, with proper care, are the acme of hog perfection for the converting of corn, clover and water into a bank account.

Any farm in Rush County is too valuable to have any animal but a pedigreed one on it. The farmer that is using poor seed or seed stock in these times of reconstruction, will be in the "also ran" column, regardless of the quality of his soil or his labor.

CLERK MUST ISSUE HUNTING LICENSE

Game Chief Sends Letter to Clerks Setting Forth Law Regarding Procedure

CAN NOT APPOINT AN AGENT

Clerks Are Held Responsible For Every Resident License Issued in Their Counties

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 8.—Because of the faulty manner in which some county clerks and their agents handle hunting and fishing licenses, the state conservation department through George N. Mannfeld, chief of the fish and game division, is sending a letter to each of the 92 county clerks of the state, setting forth in detail how the law specifies said licenses should be issued.

The law makes it compulsory that the county clerk himself issue the license excepting only Marion county. This is in the case of resident licenses. Abroad interpretation, Mr. Mannfeld says, would seem to permit the clerk to issue licenses also to persons residing in other counties. It is practiced and not objected to by the conservation department. There is no provision, under the law, giving the county clerk power to appoint an agent here and there to issue licenses in his county. The letter points out that when a county clerk appoints an agent to sell licenses, the clerk exceeds his authority. Only in Marion county can agents be lawfully appointed and then by the superintendent of the fish and game division.

Clerks are held responsible for every resident license issued in their respective counties. The clerk also must report to the conservation department on the first day of each month, giving names of the licenses and number of blank licenses remaining in his possession; also remit all monies collected for licenses issued during the preceding month.

Resident licenses to be valid must be issued only to bona fide residents of Indiana; be properly filled out

Particular care is devoted by Nash to the severe testing of the motor. Not only are various scientific tests applied to the metal as it goes from one stage to another, but also to the finished motor.

It is first extensively limbered up; then put under a load to develop any possible flaw in performance; next, disassembled and inspected, then reassembled and tested in the silent room for quietness; and, finally, given a road-test in the completed car.

with ink and signed by the purchaser. Omissions, especially in description and date, make a license worthless to the holder. Licenses are good for one year from date of issue. In some states they expire with the current year.

The letter points out there is no provision made to issue duplicates for licenses lost. A receipt given by a so-called agent is worthless when used in lieu of a license. Game wardens are instructed to arrest persons attempting to fish and hunt without license in their possession.

Traffic in licenses at prices other than set down by law ($1.00 for resident license) is illegal. The department receives many complaints of agents overcharging. Mr. Mannfeld says. Any honorably discharged soldier who is a resident may hunt and fish in this state without a license; also Indiana soldiers in regular service. Cards and statements issued by clerks or others seeking to identify ex-soldiers are not recognized. Discharge papers are, he says. Recognizing that the fish and game division receives no legislative appropriation, being mainly supported through the sale of licenses, soldiers and ex-soldiers prefer to spend a dollar and assist the state to propagate more fish, Mr. Mannfeld says.
